1972

Highlighter

Hillcrest High School

3319 N. Grant
Springfield, Missouri
Volume XIV

Mr. Jesse Robertson reflects the warmth of Hillcrest in his friendly expression.

Hillcrest — where people get together to learn, to socialize, and to mature.

Principal Bill Gist and Highlanders listen to Coach Gregg's advice about foot care in marching.

Getting together with people and becoming involved was characteristic of Hillcrest in '72. Reaching out for higher goals that will make a better tomorrow; learning that everyone is someone special, and accepting responsibilities of leadership, loyalty, citizenship, and friendship were the qualities that brought students together.

Mr. William Gist is a friend to students as well as an administrator.

Getting together in . . .

Over thirty clubs and organizations extended opportunities to the student body in order to "get it together in activities." These activities were promoted with services to the community and to student life. As a result students gained ideas for new experiences, hobbies, and knowledgeable information of careers that might be a guide for the future.

Cabinet works for new ideas

Fired with enthusiasm, the Cabinet worked energetically to initiate new ideas with the student body.

Bennett Springs was the scene of a retreat where 38 students, five teachers, and four sets of parents held rap sessions. Featured speakers stressed responsibilities to the individual.

Through the leadership of the Cabinet, the student body carried out projects such as the Halloween treats for children, the Christmas event of giving toys and clothing to needy families, and the giving of lilies to shut-ins at Easter.

Safety projects stress student participation

The 32 members of the Safety Council promoted safety by various projects throughout the school year. Projects included assemblies that stressed safety at school and car registration which provided the parking lots with safety needed during and after school hours.

Serving as officers were Mark Miller, president; Joe Stockard, vice-president; Connie Wickersham, secretary; and Karen Chartrand, treasurer.

Key club is fund raiser

Key Club members were found throughout the halls of Hillcrest in their familiar role of selling ribbons which aroused school spirit and aided the finances for other clubs.

Key Club members didn't stop there, but went on to help the community by delivering Christmas baskets to the needy and Easter lilies to shut-ins. They aided in many fund-raising drives such as the Cancer Drive and the Heart Drive.

Key Club was a service organization with members chosen on the basis of personality, scholastic ability, and community citizenship. Officers were Terry Dykes, president; Chris Fortner, vice-president; Dan Stockstill, secretary; and Randal Shank, treasurer. Sponsors were Mr. Neal Grubaugh and Mr. Carl Locke.

Service aim in projects

One of the many service projects undertaken by Anchor Club members was having a Christmas party to brighten the season for an injured Hillcrest student.

With the supervision of their sponsor, Miss Martha Ann Wells, Anchor Club offered its support in fund-raising activities such as the Cancer Drive, and also aided the Highlanders in selling candy to raise money for their trip to Washington, D. C.

Serving as officers for the club this year were Linda Steele, president; Kathy Malone, vice-president; Dana Hartsell, secretary; and Mary Powell, treasurer.

Jenny Barton and Connie Wickersham make plans for the next Anchor Club meeting.

A.F.S. members welcome foreign exchange student

American Field Service International's 75 members pitched in to help foreign exchange student Antonio Cefala' to adjust his life to a new home and experience.

Setting its goals at becoming acquainted with other A.F.S. students in Springfield, the club began to fulfill these goals by having a social get together for A.F.S. students.

The club members united in selling Christmas cards and took a step further to make Antonio's stay a long remembered one by purchasing him a Hillcrest Highlighter.

With Mrs. Dorothy Lilly, Mrs. Audrey Bridges, Miss Mary Beth Peterson, Mr. Lowell Pyle, and Miss Virginia Thomas as sponsors, A.F.S. made its mark in the history of Hillcrest.

Christy Stockard, president; Roxanne Bedell, vice-president; Danny Stiver, secretary; Tammy Self, Adult Chapter Liaison; and Sheree Appleby, treasurer, were the officers chosen to serve the club this year.

Tony Cefala', A.F.S. student, and his brother Terry Dykes, attend a dinner in the cafeteria.

Study made of careers

Special emphasis was placed on vocational careers in Future Business Leaders of America. Studies were made regarding College Curriculum in business.

In order to become better acquainted, members acted out office procedures. They were involved in working out standards for employment in firms and office jobs.

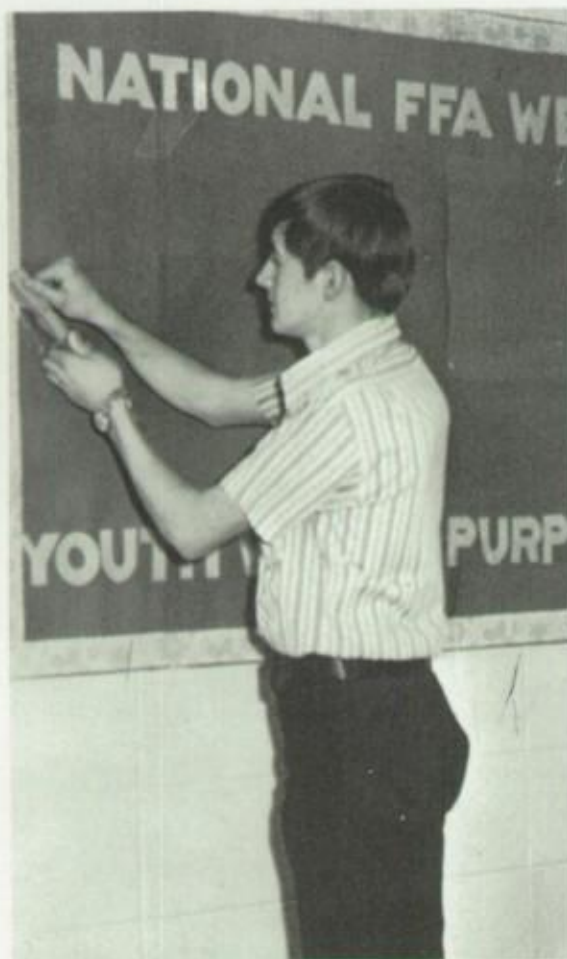

To become better acquainted at the beginning of the year, they held a cookout under the direction of Mr. L. Dugan and Mrs. Christine Squibb, sponsors.

Officers were Robbie Johnson, president; Debbie Anderson, vice-president; Rabonna Campbell, secretary; Kathy Padgett, treasurer; Helen Slaughter, parliamentarian; Karen Lowry, historian; and Charles Kensinger, reporter.

Campout, gymnastics aid in skills, talents

Physical Education Career Club, consisting of approximately 50 girls, led an active and enjoyable year.

Among the activities in which the club participated were bowling, volleyball, basketball, and tennis.

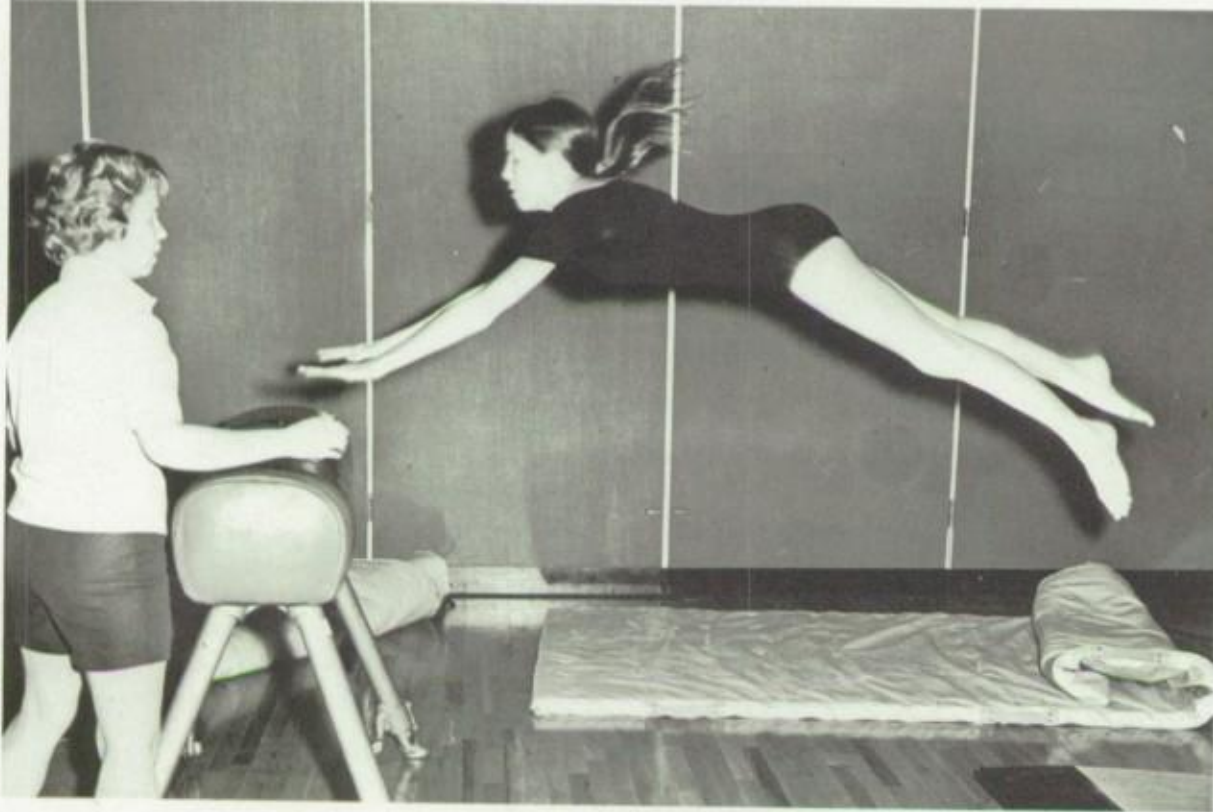

A big event near the end of the year was the annual campout. It gave the girls a taste of life outdoors, and helped to develop skills in outdoor cooking and hiking.

The club hosted two basketball Sports Days in December. Some of the duties were keeping score and running the concession stand.

Officers were Krissy Smith, president; Cheryl McGhee, vice-president; Roberta Routh, secretary; Denise Pippin, treasurer; and Miss Marilyn Moore, sponsor.

Gymnastics Club members participated in individual competition and in inter-squad meets where vaulting, balance beam, and free floor were included.

Officers were Denise Pippin, president; Connie Walker, vice-president; Cheryl McGhee, secretary; and Mrs. Dorothy Frederickson, sponsor.

Distributive Educational Clubs of America and Vocational Industrial Clubs of America united in their goals of preparing students for leadership in the world of work.

D.E.C.A. officers presented the purpose of the club and its projects on For Your Information, a local talk show appearing on KOLR-TV.

Hillcrest V.I.C.A. became the first V.I.C.A. Club in Springfield to have a formal initiation service for their officers.

The clubs joined together in a Christmas project and took food and gifts to a Christian youth home in Marionville.

Under the supervision of Mr. Jesse Hudson, D.E.C.A. officers were Bob Boswell, president; Tommy Gaddis, vice-president; Joann Reiss, treasurer; Debbie Carroll, secretary; Vickie Woodman, reporter; and Carol Johnston, parliamentarian.

V.I.C.A. officers were Bill Mincks, president; Russ Essary, vice-president; Carol Shaw, treasurer; Cindy Cavaness, secretary; Diane Buckmaster, reporter; and Danny Bolton, parliamentarian.

V.I.C.A. members Cindy Cavaness, Carol Shaw, Russell Essary, Karen Stewart, and Vicki Baker attend the State V.I.C.A. Leadership Conference.

Purchasing art form leads to school enjoyment

The "Daring Daubers" or the Art Club helped the school enjoy art through the purchase of a piece of art form. To further develop interest of art in the community and area, the 40 members visited Silver Dollar City and the Springfield Art Museum.

Officers were Keith Gillming, president; Vicki White, vice-president; Sheryl Goyer, secretary; and Brenda Scott, treasurer. Sponsors were Mrs. Suzanne Thompson and Mr. Steve Brite.

Quill and Scroll, international honorary society for high school journalists, ended its activities with the annual awards banquet sponsored by the five high schools. At this banquet awards for journalistic excellence were presented. Editorial staffs for the following year were announced by the principals of each school.

Approximately 500 students attended the Highlighter yearbook party sponsored by the society.

Foreign customs taught through projects, plays

French, Latin, and the Spanish Clubs provided interested students with the chance to gain more knowledge about foreign countries. During the year these clubs learned about foreign customs through plays, projects, and caroling.

French Club had self-produced plays as one of its projects. Serving as officers were Christie Stockard, president; Tammy Self, vice-president; Sylvia Smallwood, secretary-treasurer; John Hopkins, reporter; and Mrs. Susan Foltz, sponsor.

Preparing a Christmas basket for the needy and attending the state convention in Columbia were all part of the active Latin Club. The officers were Gail Romine and Danny Stockstill, co-presidents; Kay Murray and Eddie Johnson, vice-presidents; Cheryl Beatty, secretary; Celine Schmid, treasurer; Debbie Hunsaker, historian; and Mrs. Rebecca Bell, sponsor.

The Spanish Club members participated in "El Dia de la Raza," or Columbus Day, and the White Rose Banquet on Pan American Day. Officers were Ray Johnson, president; Danny Prewett, vice-president; Kathy Malone, secretary; Cheri Ohlin, treasurer; Jo Lynne Palmer-ton, reporter; Debbie Enlow, historian, and Miss Virginia Thomas, sponsor.

Clubs write on research

"Tomorrow's Scientists and Engineers" was the topic on which science students wrote research papers suggested by the Missouri Junior Academy of Science.

Steve Younger, Arthur Adams, and Steve Scott extended their interests and worked with facilities such as the computers at Southwest Missouri State College.

A chilly morning in January found members viewing the lunar eclipse at 3:15 a.m. on the school parking lot.

Leading a trip to the Springday plant were officers Ron Snelling, president; Steve Younger, vice-president; Walter Knapp, secretary; and Arthur Adams, treasurer; Mr. Hugh Brewer, and Mrs. Mary O'Neal, sponsors.

N.F.L. hosted a speech and debate tournament at Hillcrest. Teams and individual events secured higher ratings in competition. Officers were Danny Stiver, president; Vicky Sturgell, vice-president; and Debra Zongker, secretary.

Dramatists use skills

Approximately 65 members of Thespians revealed their talent by taking part in presentations throughout the year.

A large percentage of the members had some part in the musical, whose success was largely due to their efforts.

Talent assemblies and the spring play, "Golden Fleecing," were also winners as a result of Thespian members' dramatic talents.

Stage technicians, under the direction of Mr. Carl Locke, sponsor, carried out their jobs effectively. Operating sound and lighting equipment for assemblies, plays, musicals, and dramatics classes using the auditorium provided chances to use their skills.

Choirs sing musical hit

Madrigal singing offered 16 members with outstanding ability an opportunity to perform for Springfield civic groups. Their songs dealt with 16th century music.

The Sophomore chorus of 54 members and the Freshman chorus of 85 voices performed at the Christmas and Thanksgiving assemblies. The Boys' Glee Club of 50 voices added to the seasonal programs.

Seventy-four advanced choir members supplied the lead voices for the musical, "The Sound of Music," as well as the choruses. Performances in winter and spring concerts, massed festivals, and baccalaureate services were other major projects of the choir.

Teamwork makes musical

The "Sound of Music" was hailed a 100 percent success as it played before a full house at each performance.

Students worked earnestly individually and as a team to make Hillcrest's fall musical an event to be long remembered.

Four hundred-fifty long hours of rehearsing, preparing scenery and sets, practicing music, and memorizing lines took dedication and determination of the 105 member cast and all of the other groups that pitched in and gave a helping hand to give the musical its finishing touches.

The orchestra, under the direction of Paul Tillman, played a total of 17 songs which added liveliness and zest to the musical production.

The presentation was under the direction of Mrs. Sandra House, and Miss Marilyn Anderson, vocal music director.

Orchestra aids musical

The orchestra, with its appealing accompaniment, aided the musical, "Sound of Music" to achieve its success.

School Assemblies gave the student body a chance to hear the orchestra perform. Ensembles played for various civic organizations in the community.

Other types of performances included concerts and exchange assemblies, and participation in district festivals.

Aides help secretaries

To serve Hillcrest in helpful and willing ways was the attitude of the office assistants as they scurried about in their everyday duties. These duties included answering telephones, running errands for secretaries and principals, and working with those who wanted help. Assistant librarians were often found at the top of a book case or in a pile of magazines looking for that material someone just could not find. They also checked in and out books for the students.

Corps represents state at cherry blossom time

Through the concerted efforts of Hillcrest students and the Bonnie Buchanans of Kickapoo in selling 10,800 bars of candy, the Highlander Drum and Bugle Corps was able to participate in the Cherry Blossom Festival of Princesses, Washington, D. C. in April.

Highlander representatives traveled to Jefferson City in early February where they visited the House of Representatives who issued a courtesy resolution for the Highlanders. Governor Warren E. Hearnes' proclamation stated that the Highlanders were the official delegation to represent Missouri at the Cherry Blossom Festival. After the Senate issued a resolution to honor the Highlanders, the Missouri flag was flown over the Capitol Building.

In other activities, the Highlanders performed at football games, community parades, and danced the traditional Highlander dances, the "Highlander Fling," and the "Festival of Sword Dances." The Corps served as guides for parents and guests at Open House during American Education Week.

Squads lead Hornet fans

Pushing for spirit were the 16 cheerleaders who appeared in front of the sports helping to unify school spirit and ignite the most powerful explosion ever set off at Hillcrest. This explosion consisted of a pride in the teams no matter what the score.

Hornets' Nest was also a product of the cheerleaders' time and efforts. The Junior Varsity cheerleaders showed up with new brightly colored uniforms to complete a picture of blue, gray, and orange.

"Go For A Win" pictured one of the many signs the cheerleaders painted and displayed in the student center to inspire the teams and student body to win.

New uniforms add style to Hornets' Nest spirit

Helping to lead the student body in cheers and chants was the enthusiastic group known as Hornets' Nest. The new blue and orange uniforms added to the peppy style displayed by the group. Officers who helped vigorously to cheer the Hornets to victory were Susie Landreth, president; Debbie Manes, vice-president; and Karen Chartrand, secretary. Sponsors were Mrs. Mary Armstrong and Mrs. Susan Foltz.

Magic sets dance theme

"Do you believe in magic?" was the theme at the 1971 Regalia where Debbie Anderson reigned as queen. Her attendants were Jacque Harrell and Charlotte Sears, seniors; Gay Baxter and Cheryl McKinney, juniors; LuRita Charle and Sharon Stokes, sophomores; and Loa Braig and Lisa Pennell, freshmen. These girls were nominated in homerooms and were chosen as one of four finalists in a primary election. They were then named attendants as the result of a final election. The queen was announced at halftime performance of the Hillcrest-Mexico football game. Julian Christian provided the magical touch which enhanced the night's activities.

National Merit semifinalists, Ronnie Snelling, and Danny Stiver, receiver of Letter of Commendation, study literary works for an English exam.

Two receive honors

Recognition was given to two Hillcrest seniors who took the National Merit test in the fall of 1970. The test was given to juniors who planned to attend college. Reaching the semifinals was Ronnie Snelling and receiving a Letter of Commendation was Danny Stiver.

Assemblies offer variety for student enjoyment

Geared to meet the interest of students, assemblies offered a change in the normal pace of a school day.

Assemblies were presented to students on special occasions such as Christmas and Easter.

An inaugural assembly was held for the installation of Student Council officers. Dr. William Everheart, president of Drury College, was the featured speaker.

A patriotic assembly emphasized American heritage and gave tribute to the National Anthem.

A display of talent took place in the talent assemblies. Music, dramatic, and comedy acts were performed to entertain the student body. All students were invited to try out for the assemblies and acts were selected by a panel of judges.

Miss Teenage America, Rewa Walsh, related her experiences as Miss Teenage America.

Serving as assemblies commissioner was senior Mark Pennell.

Special events enrich extracurricular program

As the school year progressed, special events occurred adding to the enrichment of the school program.

After a written test was taken, Gayle Appleby was named Betty Crocker's Homemaker of Tomorrow for 1972.

Hillcrest placed three district winners in the "Voice of Democracy" contest. Steve Grant placed first; Janet Long, second; and Mark Scott, third. Steve came in second in state rating.

The Ozark Empire Kiwanis Club recognized Danny Stiver with a Young Citizen Award.

The district meeting saw Hillcrest Cooperative Occupational Education Chapter winning the Distributive Education chapter of the year award. Carol Johnston won first place in Job Manual.

The annual chili supper sponsored by the mothers of the Highlander Drum and Bugle Corps gave parents and teachers an opportunity to meet.

Community and students united to sell candy bars to help defray expenses for the Highlanders to participate in the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C.

It was with a feeling of pride that Hillcrest learned that it was one of 50 schools to receive the "Principal School Award" from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. One of the reasons that Hillcrest won the award was based upon the unified effort of the school.

Getting together in . . .

Students approached the goals which they set for themselves through constructive efforts of the administrative staff. Subject matter was geared to meet the needs and aims of each student.

academics

New study methods meet individual need, ability

Students had a chance to learn through experimental methods in their English and history classes at Hillcrest this year. Study methods and learning techniques were designed to meet the wants and needs of each class, giving students aid in learning to the best of their ability.

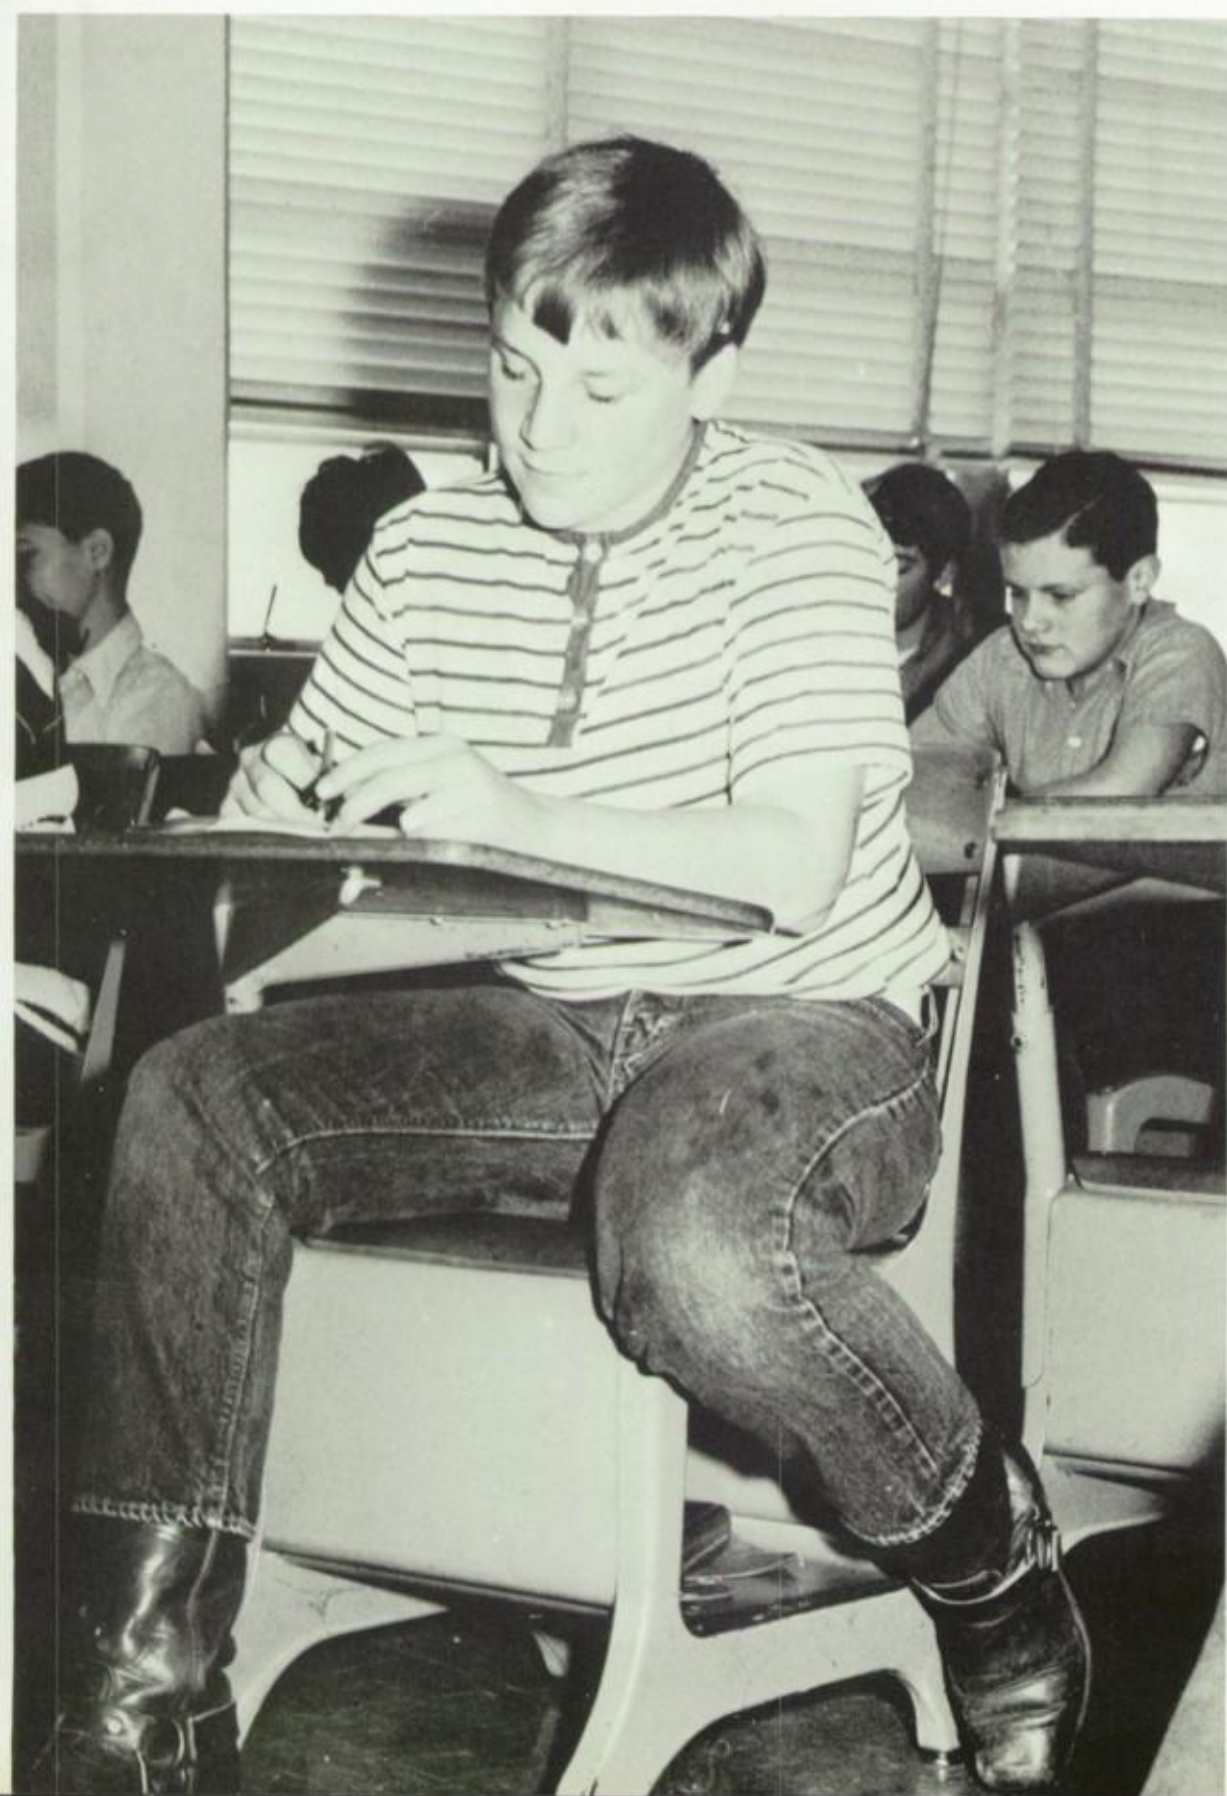

Freshman teachers worked together in planning class activities, and classes united to view films, hear speakers, and share ideas. Dramatization of stories helped literature come 'alive' to English III students. Round-table discussions provided a chance for students to discuss ideas and thoughts and learn from each other. Individual study helped students to learn at their own pace. Reporting on events helped keep student interest alive.

Earth science initiates nature trail for study

Earth science students initiated an outdoor classroom which they found was a logical place to study earth science. A nature trail was founded where students could see first hand the structures and processes of the earth. Hopes were set sky high with plans to build a model rocket and launch it, which would be a first for Hillcrest.

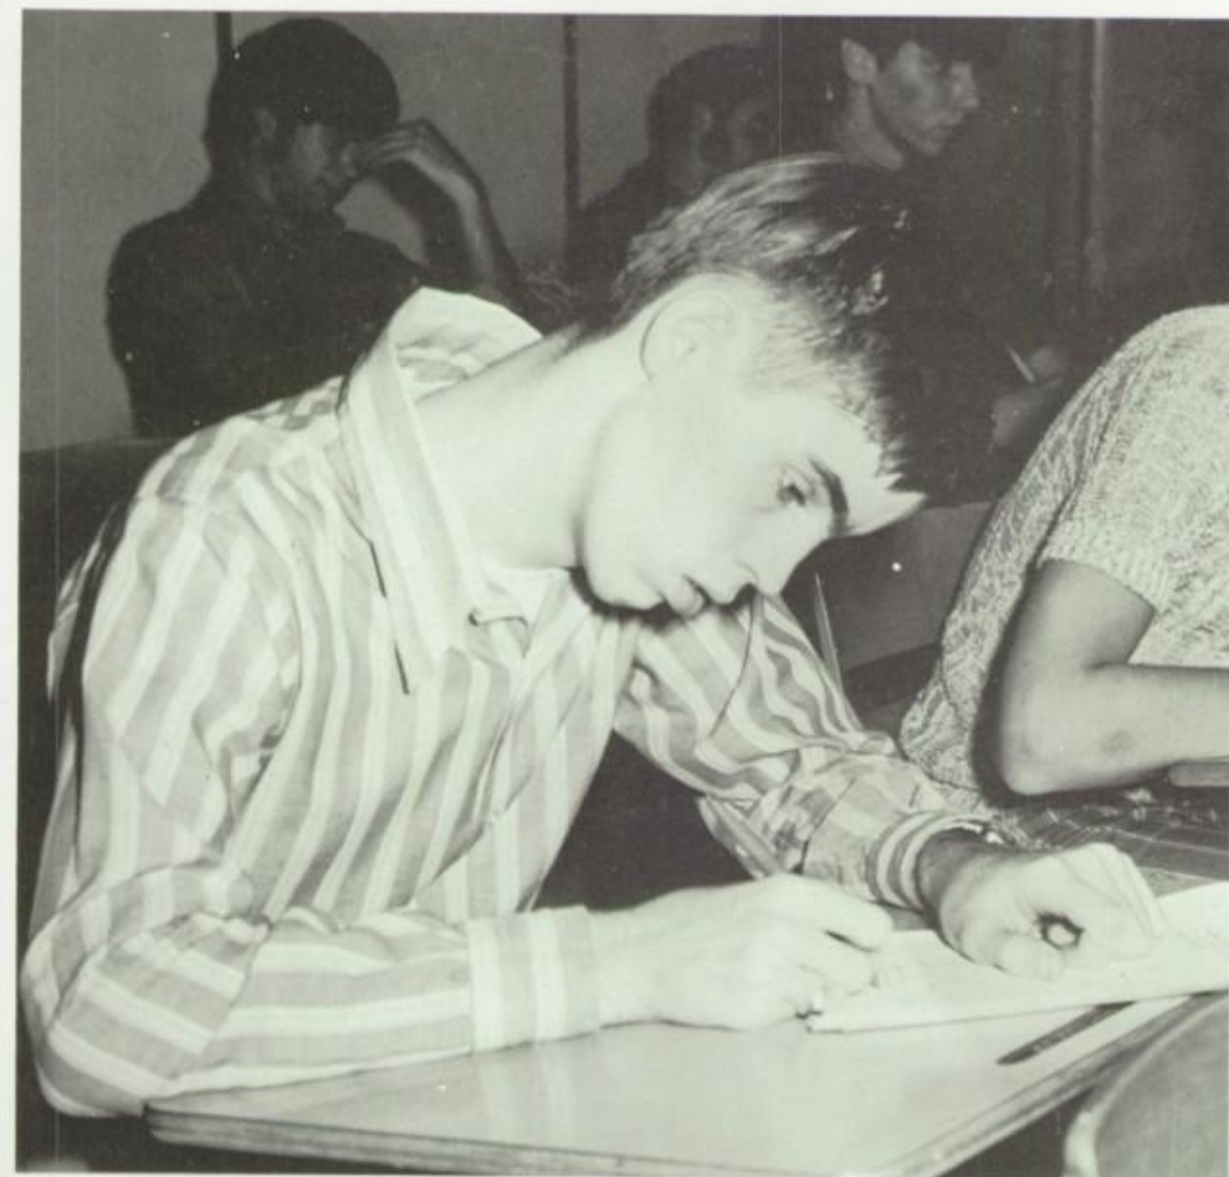

Students were given the chance to choose from various courses in the line of science and math which enabled them to fulfill their individual needs.

Math I and II were available for those students who were looking for courses to fulfill their mathematic requirement for graduation, while Algebra II was suggested for those whose destination after high school was college. Geometry and trigonometry offered a challenge to many students who were enrolled in the advanced math courses while math analysis provided college bound students the advanced processes of mathematics.

Journalism, business work in communication skills

Improving attitudes regarding communication and greater productivity were stressed in business courses and journalism.

Journalism students kept the area of communications alive through publishing 27 editions of the Hillcrest Herald and a yearbook, the High-lighter. Functional uses of advertising, photography, and news writing helped to prepare the students for vocational careers in journalism.

Radio and television were put into practical use through actual participation.

Business areas opened the way to office jobs such as bookkeeping and machine operating which could be used to help the student with both present and future plans.

In bookkeeping students advanced according to their own rate of speed and ability. Using an economics model game, basic business people discovered fundamentals of economics. Business law students gained practical knowledge of legal aspects in business in a field trip to the court house.

Speakers hold tourney; dramatists stage musical

Approximately 27 high schools participated in the Hillcrest Speech Tournament, hosted by the Speech Department.

Speech students unveiled quality speaking abilities as they took part in Neophyte Speech Tournaments around the area. Several first and second class trophies were obtained at these tourneys which provided students with a sense of accomplishment.

An introduction to speech was offered as fundamental of speech students used classroom techniques as they gave informative speeches and original orations.

Drama students uncovered their hidden acting abilities as they performed one-act plays and pantomimes before their fellow class members.

Working with the musical, "Sound of Music," students made costumes, helped make sets, and took responsibility in making sure necessary properties were on hand.

A children's theater which traveled to hospital and grade schools gave students a further chance to give a demonstration of their talent.

Skits used in learning

Songs, skits, and games were used in French and Latin to help acquaint students with the foreign languages.

A trip to Chef Tetart French restaurant at Branson set the year off with a yummy ending for French students.

Latin students studied The Odyssey which became the basis for pantomimes later in the year. Original songs of Sirens were written by students with many of them having drawings to accompany them.

At Christmas time, Latin carols filled the air, and Latin students observed the Roman festivity, Saturnalia.

Student creativity enriches fine arts

Music, art, and books emphasized the importance of the fine arts program.

Music departments revealed talent in both vocal and instrumental classes. The band performed at football games bringing Hillcrest spirit to its peak. It also marched in parades, showing snappy zest and enthusiasm. Orchestra highlighted the musical with the needed atmosphere to enhance the individual scenes. Vocal groups such as choir, chorus, and madrigal contributed to many assemblies and programs at Hillcrest.

Art classes permitted students to express themselves by creating paintings and sculptures, which also gave them a chance to demonstrate their creativeness.

Designing back drop scenes for the "Sound of Music" took skill and much artistic ability which students mastered with flying colors.

The library served students as a facility to study and to loan out books which were a source of entertainment.

Classes aid in musical

An introduction to vocational trades was offered to students enrolled in industrial arts classes.

Along with the usual wood projects constructed in woodwork, emphasis was placed on the importance of safety and proper use of machinery. Construction of scenes for the musical, "Sound of Music," provided students with a chance to put their knowledge of woodworking to use.

Drafting classes learned how to use graphic language to describe the shape, size, and specification of an object. Drawings and blueprints were made by students with stress put on sketching and freehand lettering.

Electricity gave students a fundamental knowledge of electrical functions.

Mass production of metal items was a project by metalwork classes as they studied areas of metal fabrication.

Classes prepare students for lifetime needs

Drivers' Education and Cooperative Occupational Education both went hand in hand to prepare students to face lifetime needs of driving and working. These classes gave students opportunities to prove themselves worthy in accepting responsibility.

Drivers' education was opened to sophomores who would soon become involved in driving. It prepared these students with an awareness of the safety techniques of running an automobile. Learning the parts of a car and how to handle minor problems were stressed in the drivers' education classes.

The goals in C.O.E. classes were to increase the students' knowledge in various occupations such as sales clerks, floristry, and industry.

Each student completed a thorough study of his individual occupation and then compiled a job manual which gave an outlook of the occupation. C.O.E. students attended school half of the day, and worked at their jobs the other half.

Seniors have opportunity for physical education

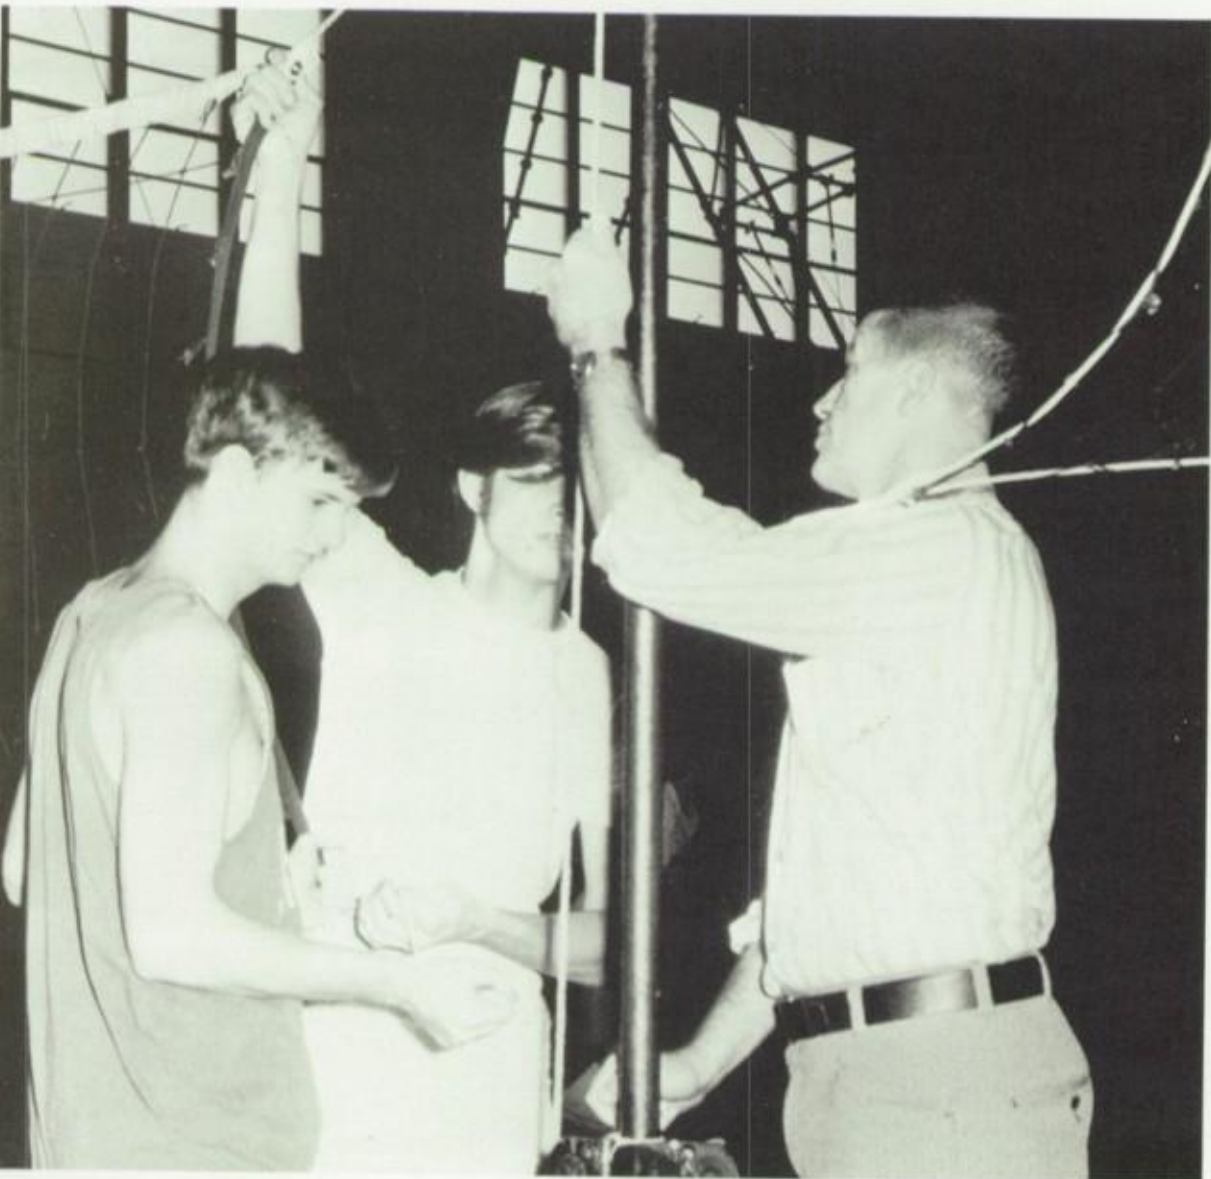

New to the physical education classes this year were seniors. This class offered a definite change to the senior class schedule with students participating in activities such as bowling, swimming, and volleyball.

Calisthenics, indoor and outdoor sports, and relay races helped students improve their physical condition. They also gave students a break from the ordinary class routine.

Group dynamics was used in teaching health classes a unit on drugs. Each group studied a different phase of drugs and presented a report to the class on its findings. Another health phase was studied showing the danger of smoking through the use of a smoking machine that showed the nicotine and tar in a paper lung.

Studies result in functional projects

Macaroni, silver spray paint, and an empty cigar box were ingredients which created a beautiful jewelry box in home economics.

Canning, making appetizers, learning kitchen arrangements, and using electrical appliances were part of the home economics program.

An important child care project was the preparation of a "How-to-Run-the-Business" notebook. Details were planned and practiced for the operation of a Child Care Center for three, four, and five year olds. Children of this age were in school for "lab practice" for the students.

To take the place of tests, practical activities related to home decoration were substituted in home decorating. Visual advertising was a weekly assignment and other work involved news media advertising.

Home economics girls styled coats and ponchos, using fake fur and suede material. These were modeled in a style show.

Over 25 courses offered in vocational training

Approximately 150 Hillcrest students took advantage of the more than 25 courses offered in the Willard J. Graff Area Vocational Technical Center.

Twelve students were enrolled in Food Service, a new course offered this year for students interested in a vocational career. To meet the changing needs of a technological and vocational society other courses were added such as merchandising sales and management. Plans were made to offer vocational agri-business and plumbing in 1972-73.

Ninety-five students were scheduled into the morning schedule and fifty-five were involved in the afternoon classes. These students were transported to and from their schools by bus. They received half-day training in a variety of vocational subjects as television repair, printing, mechanics, health occupations, electronics, and refrigeration.

Upon graduation students were assisted in securing employment in the particular area in which they were trained.

Getting together in . . .

Sports provided a challenge that the mighty Hornets accepted with determination. Coaches and teams worked together in preparing the squads for a strong, competitive season. Excitement and tension drew the crowd and teams together to provide the teams with winning desire.

sports

Four win conference team

Out of 16 returning lettermen four Hornets were picked for the All-Conference team. David Rothermel gained a position on the first team as defensive back along with Mike Binder as offensive guard. Honorable mention went to Curt Wimberley, defensive back; Tim Lovett, defensive guard.

David Rothermel and Steve Highfill were named back and lineman of the year for the Hornets.

David Seaman was awarded the Sportsmanship Award by his teammates at the Booster Club annual football banquet.

Although the record showed that it was not a winning year, the quality of the team was seen in its desire to play against such strong highly rated teams as Jefferson City, which was held to only 14 points against the fighting Hornets.

The determined players ended the season by downing northside neighbor, Central, 21-13.

The Junior Varsity football squad proved to have a lot of potential after coming back from a freshman record of 0-6 to collect a J.V. record of 7-1. The frosh football squad ended the season with a 0-6 record. Out of 51 boys who started the season, 46 members lettered.

Hornets tie for third in conference play

In Ozark Conference, the Hornets tied with Parkview for third place with a record of 7-5.

In league action the Hornets were not always victorious, but they presented some anxious moments for their opponents in defeating Parkview once on the Hillcrest court and surprising Glendale on its hardwoods.

The fighting Hornets captured the Forsyth Tournament and placed third in the Gold Division of the S. M. S. tournament.

In the regional tournament the Hornets made it into the semi-finals by beating Kickapoo and Ozark Conference champion Central to lose to Parkview after two nights of strenuous play.

Leading the Hornets were seniors

Keith Drumright, Danny Funkhouser, George Frazier, Mark Pennell, Bobby Detherage, Richard Wells, and Curt Wimberley. Junior Hornets were Kelly Snider, John Whitworth, Bob Ballard, Eddie Fisher, Randy Crocker, Bill Moore, and Dennis Swaim.

The Junior Varsity had an outstanding season and placed third in the city-wide tournament with players: Jeff McMillen, Mike Manes, David Snowden, Pat Parrott, Joe Stockard, John Ragain, George Flattery, and David Anderson.

Seniors lead matmen to unprecedented record

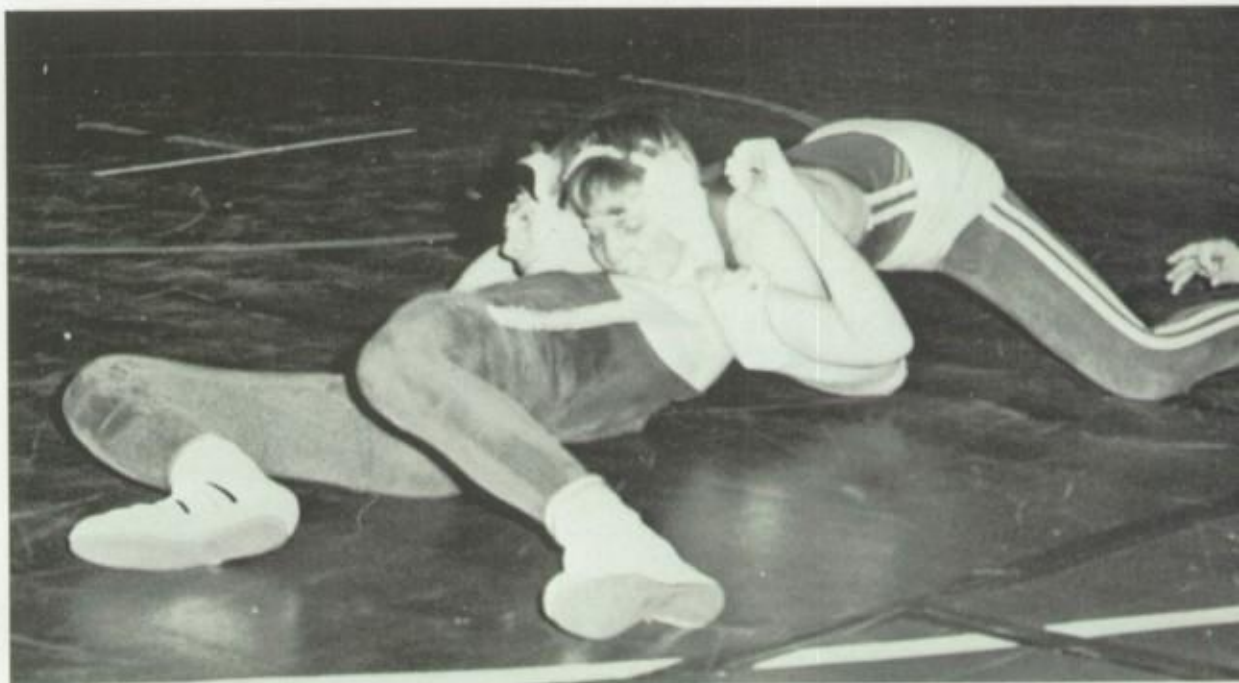

Led by Seniors Darwin and Marwin Goff, Victor Barber, and David Seaman, Coach Jerry Gregg's matmen compiled an unprecedented record of 16-3-1 in the history of Hillcrest.

This year's team was the first to win first place in the Southwest Missouri State College Tournament. It was also the first Hillcrest team to become co-champion of Ozark conference.

In the district tournament the wrestlers took fourth place which gave six fellows a chance to travel to the Regional Tournament in Jefferson City. Lee Manuel, a junior wrestler in the 100 pound class, was eligible to go to state.

The Junior Varsity wrestling squad this year compiled an undefeated season with a record of 8-0. Next year's team will be led by juniors Lee Manuel, Mike Poindexter, Doug Damiani, John Butler, Bruce Collins, and Danny Newton.

Team takes Ozark meet

Keeping up its two-year record of victories, the Cross Country team of Bryan Feemster, Mark Scott, Jeff Whitlock, Bill Davidson, and Ralph Grimes captured the city championship.

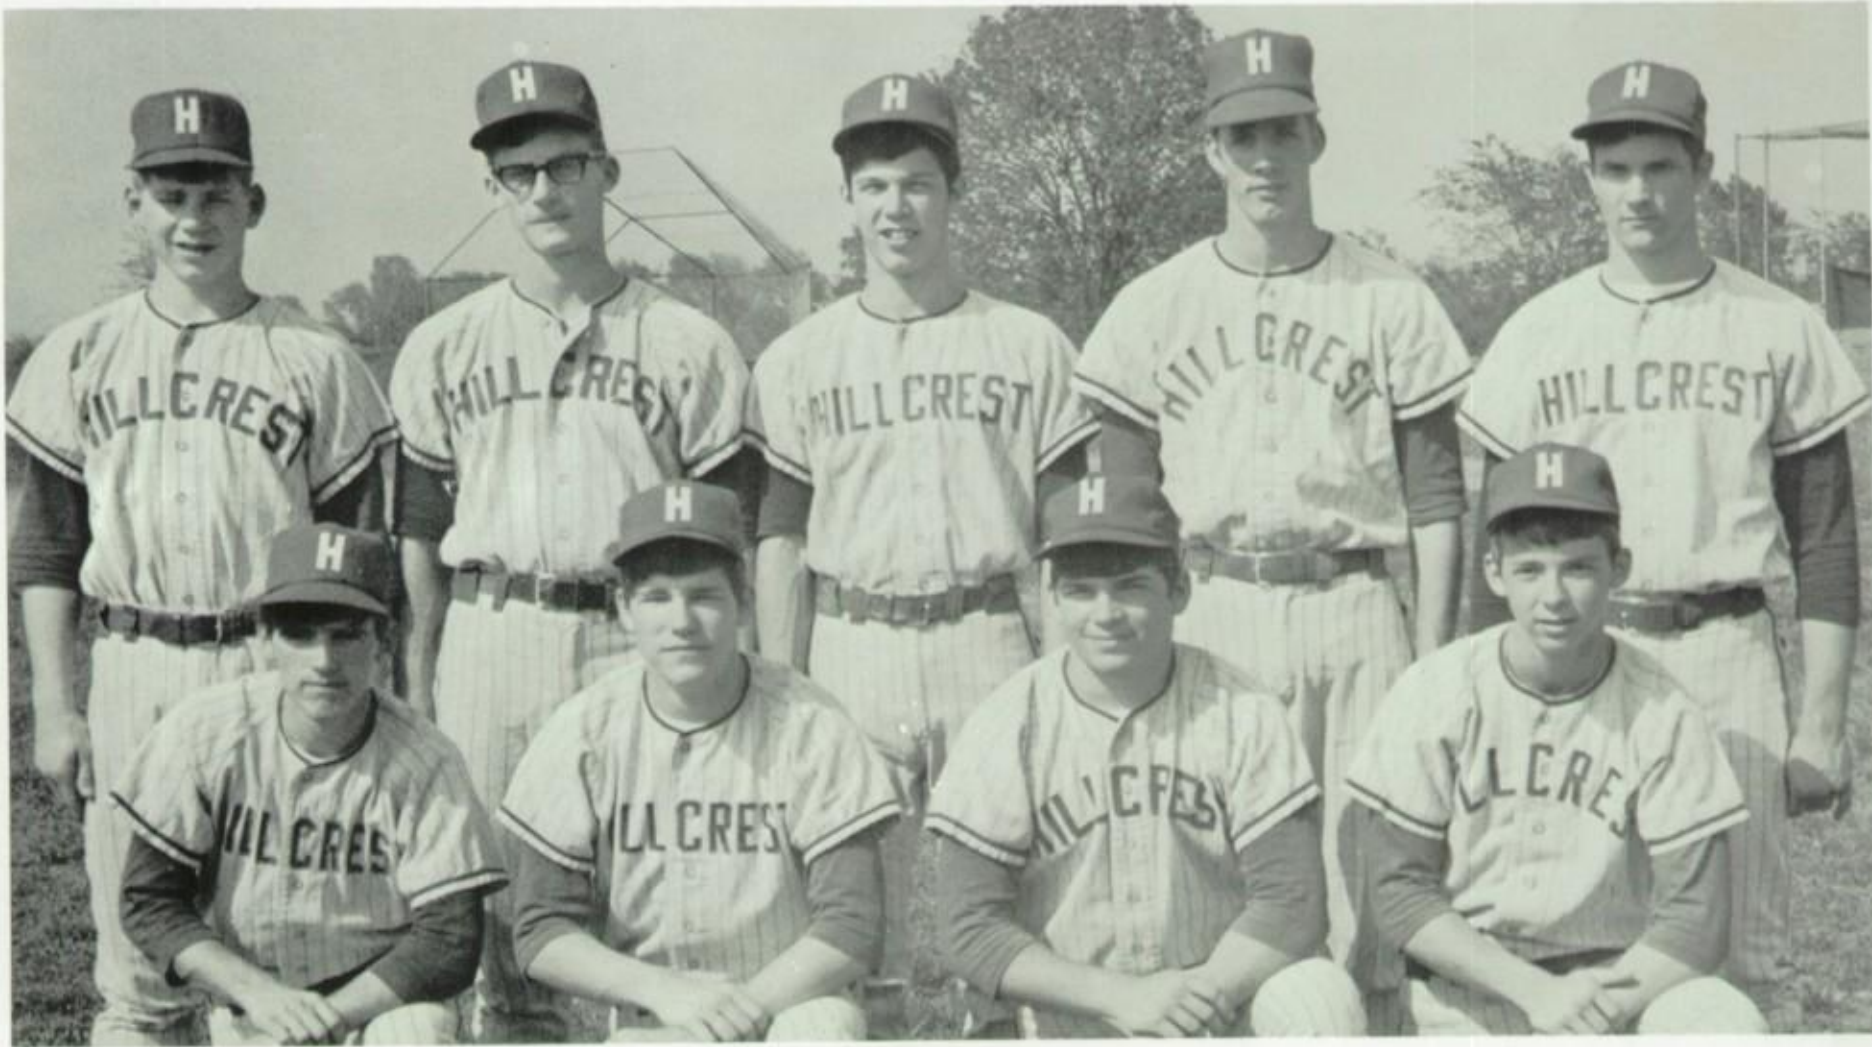

Six track records were made with taking the Ozark Conference meet, wins in All-Relay meet, the All-City, and a second place in the S.M.S. relays.

Don Parnell's records of 15.1 seconds in the highs and his 19.8 seconds in the lows; 10.1 seconds in the 100-yard dash broke former records.

The two-mile relay team of Chris Fortner, Tim Davis, Bill Davidson, and Ralph Grimes ran a time of 8:18.4 minutes.

Mark Scott in the two-mile run recorded a time of 10:12 minutes.

Steve Burney set a record of 39' — 5½" in the triple jump, a new event.

BIRM'S BOMBERS . . . Front Row: Darrell Johnston, Drew Shane, David Rothermel, and Keith Drumright. Second Row: Kelly Snider, Bobby Detherage, Danny Funkhouser, Curt Wimberley, and Jim Barrett.

Bombers go undefeated

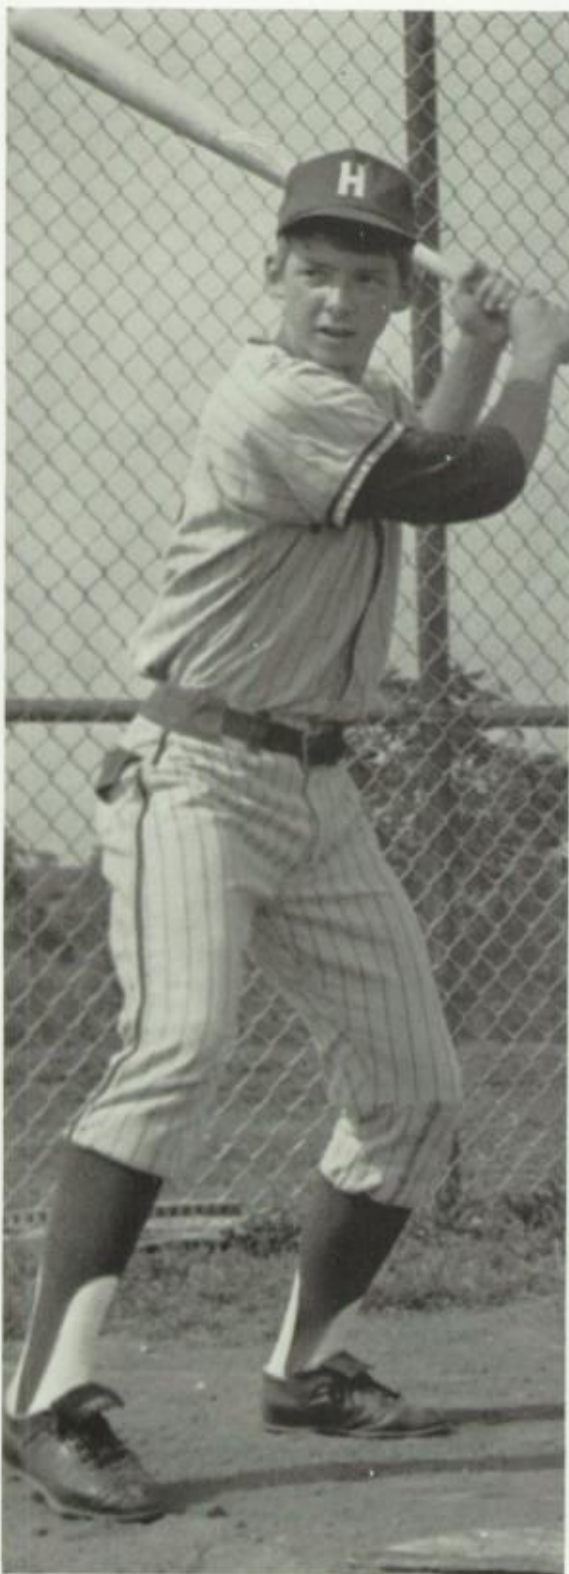

Bob Detherage struck out 12 and pitched his second no-hit game to finish Hillcrest's fourth undefeated conference season with a slate of 10-0 only to be defeated by Memorial Eagles in the semifinals May 12 in Joplin.

The team batting was a cool .327; and three players, David Rothermel, Keith Drumright, and Kelly Snider neared a batting average around .450.

Returning lettermen did not disappoint Hornet fans as David Rothermel, Keith Drumright, and Bobby Detherage came through as ace batters with Detherage also on the pitching mound. Coach Dick Birmingham called on Drew Shane, Kelly Snider, Danny Funkhouser, Curt Wimberley, and Jim Barrett for speed, precision, and swift fielding.

Veterans strengthen tennis, golf teams

Latter part of March found golfers and tennis players competing on greens and courts as the spring season opened for matches.

With Coach Bob Barnes as the new coach, the Hillcrest netters had a veteran squad of six lettermen: Terry Dykes and Marwin Goff, seniors; Bill Drake, Greg Johns, Doug Damiani and John Whitworth, juniors.

The putters, coached by Mr. Bill Anderson, returned with a team of

Shooting consistently in the 90's on the par-70 Grandview Golf course strengthened the team a great deal this year.

Intramurals play vital part in activities

For more than 700 Hillcrest students intramurals played a vital part in their extracurricular activities.

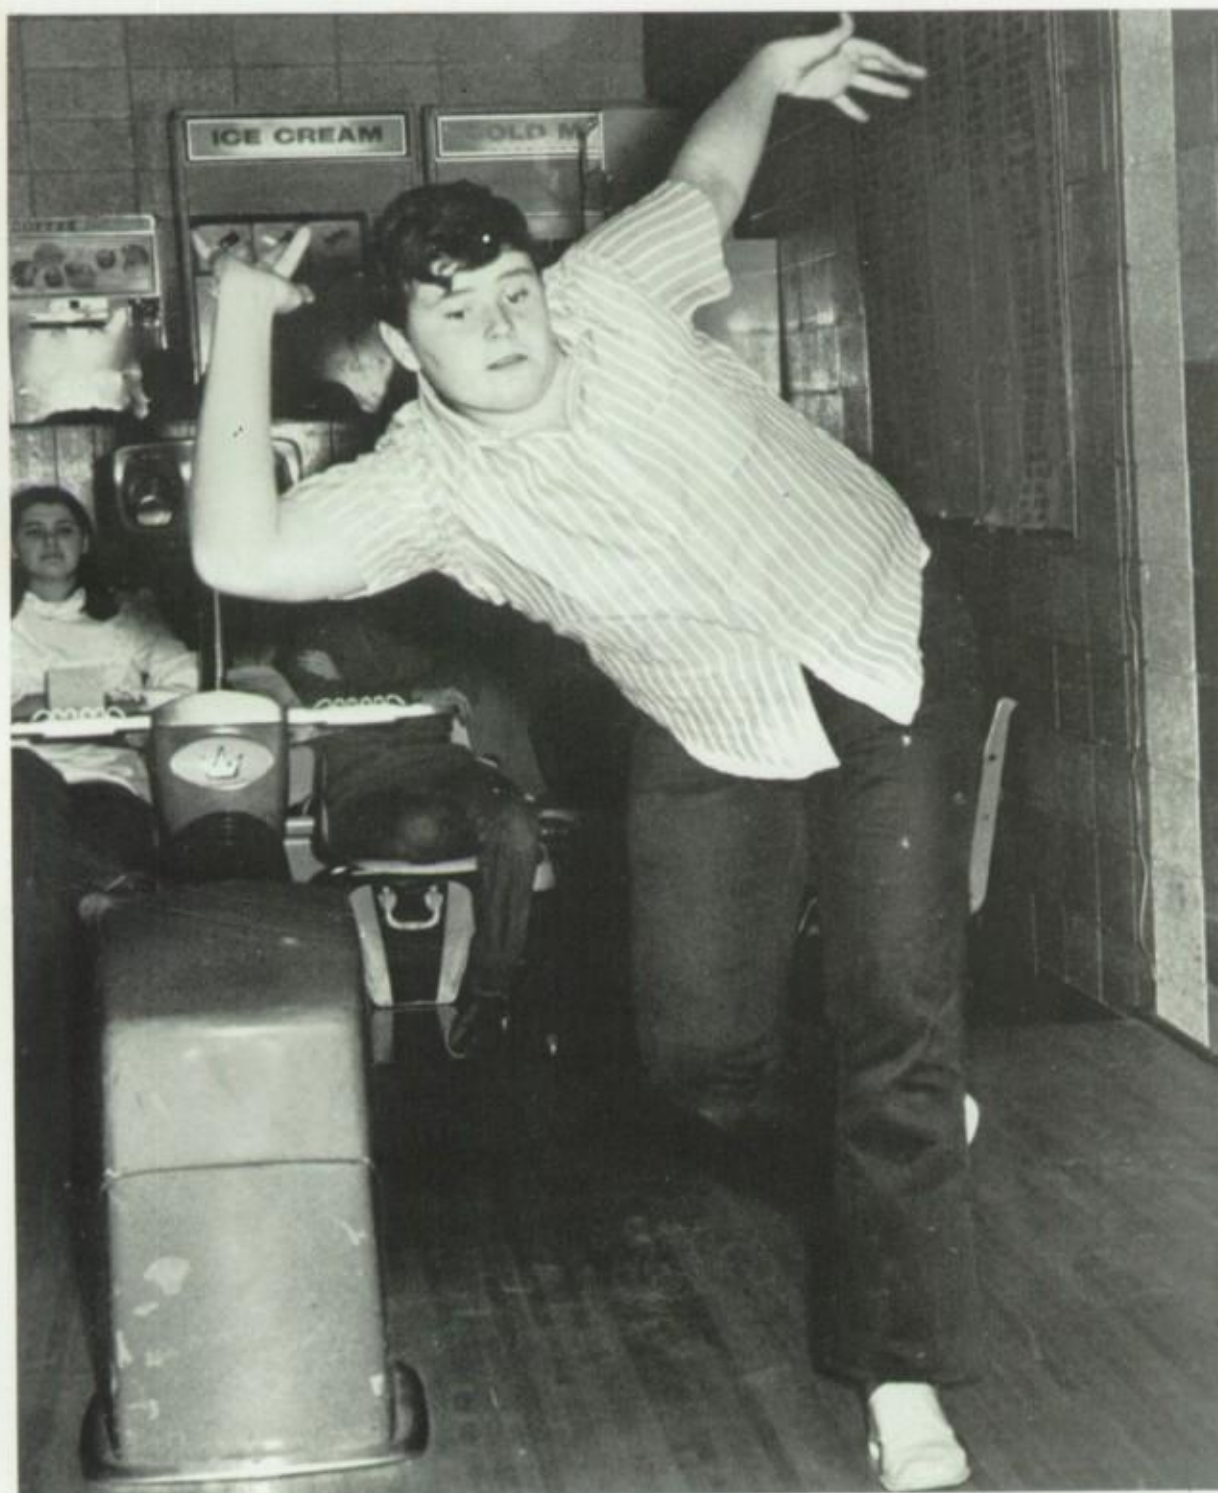

Basketball was a favorite sport with 256 boys and 120 girls participating. Volleyball came next with 192 boys and 160 girls enjoying the activity.

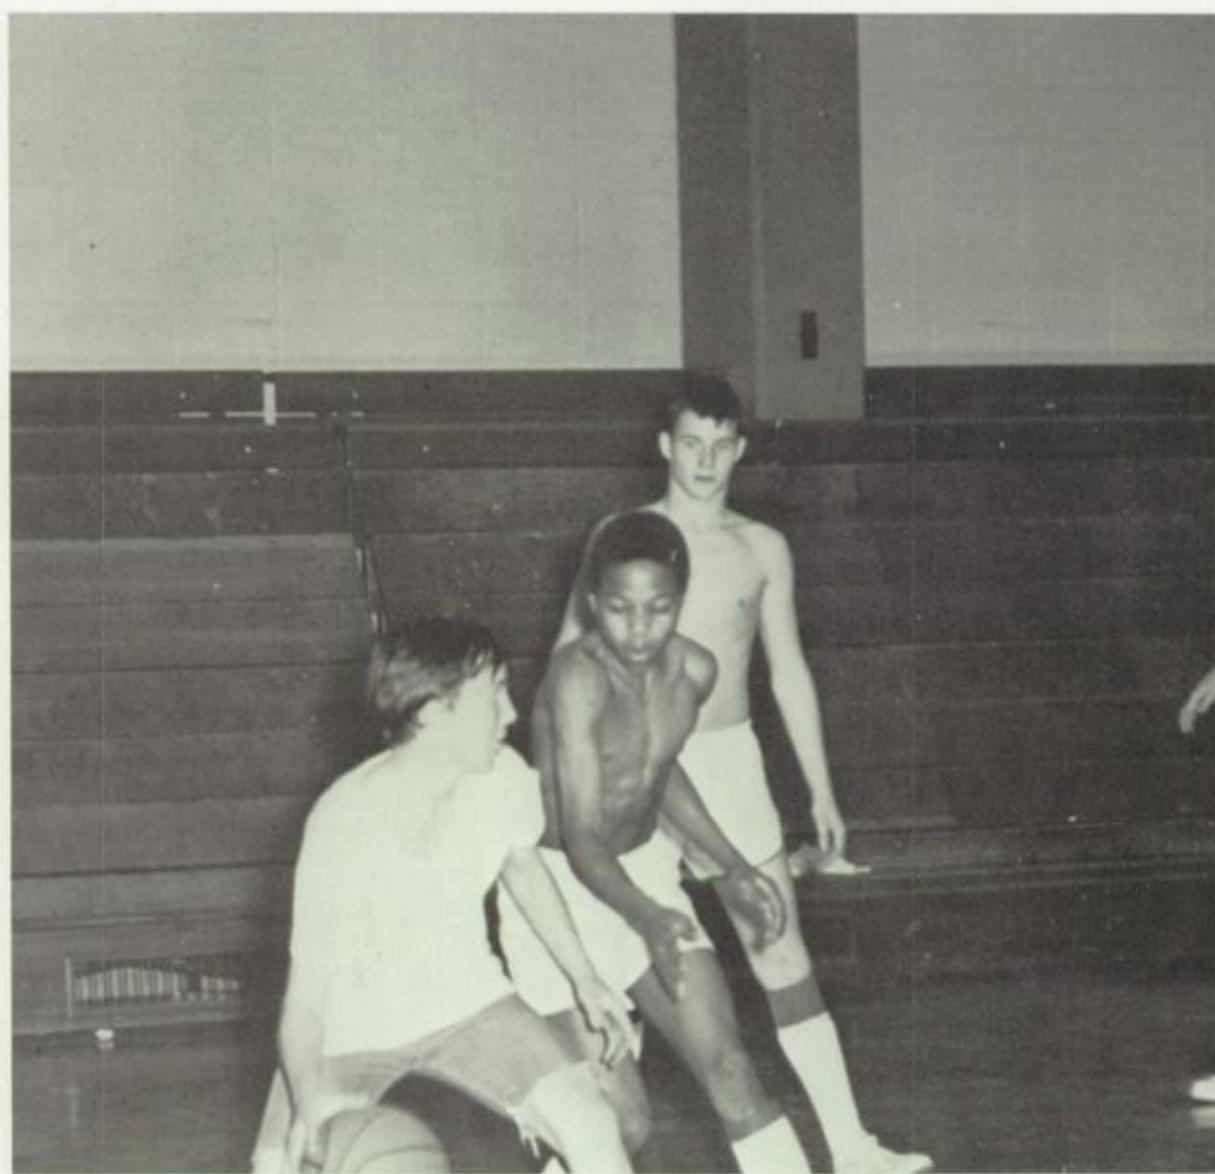

The bowling lanes rumbled as 128 students took advantage of after school hours to enjoy the game. The desire to play tennis and golf brought out a number of eager participants.

The program was under the direction of Miss Marilyn Moore and Mr. Frank Wann.

Intramurals provided an opportunity for students to get together in friendly competition and to enjoy healthful exercises.

Getting together with . . .

To make Hillcrest the great school that it is requires the concern of many people: administrators, faculty, secretaries, cooks, custodians, and 1450 students.

Board continues to work for educational needs

The Board of Education continued to give its time and energy to promote the best possible education for students in the Springfield R-12 District.

In spite of labor difficulties, the new Kickapoo High School was opened, accomodating over 900 students. The Board realized the need for all students to receive adequate education, so provided a classroom with facilities for the handicapped, an orthopedic class in the new high school.

Working with Superintendent Kuklenski, the Board helped through all legal avenues possible to seek relief from the wage freeze for the teachers.

To meet the educational needs of a complex and highly technological society, the Board planned a program which called for qualified personnel to carry out the enriched curriculum.

Education is involvement

"A quality program of education is never an accident: It is always the result of high intention, sincere effort, intelligent direction, and skillful execution," Dr. Joe Kuklenski told the Springfield personnel during Teachers' Institute Week in his address, Accountability for Quality Education.

He further emphasized that accountability for Quality Education involves the various publics, the members of the teaching profession, and the students for whom schools exist.

Dr. Kuklenski continued his responsibility for improving the educational program for over 26,000 students which included opening the new Kickapoo High School.

Dr. Kuklenski kept in touch with the concerns of Springfield through his many community activities.

Educators organize instructional program

Dr. A. M. Alexander, assistant superintendent for secondary education, was responsible for the administration and general supervision of the secondary school program.

Dr. A. M. Alexander retired this year after serving 46 years in education. These years included 17 years as superintendent of schools, five years as secondary principal, three years as director of curriculum. He has held his present position since 1961.

This year as Dr. Alexander retired, he stressed his concern in his talk on "Continuing Concerns for Secondary Education" at the Teachers Institute Week as he said, "Learning in almost any classroom can be improved if the teacher keeps in mind that he is a director of learning. He wants to know what seems important to the student."

Mr. John Sweeney, deputy superintendent for instruction, helped to establish facilities for the handicapped and an orthopedic class at Kickapoo High School.

Mr. Sweeney also began the development of classes in an environmental educational program. One of his major concerns was organizing the summer school program.

"Keeping the people informed," remarked Mr. Sweeney, "is an important part of my position."

He continued his community activities such as being elected vice-president of CODAC; worked on the Community Planning Council, and with a Y.M.C.A. Industrial Management course.

Unity goal of leaders

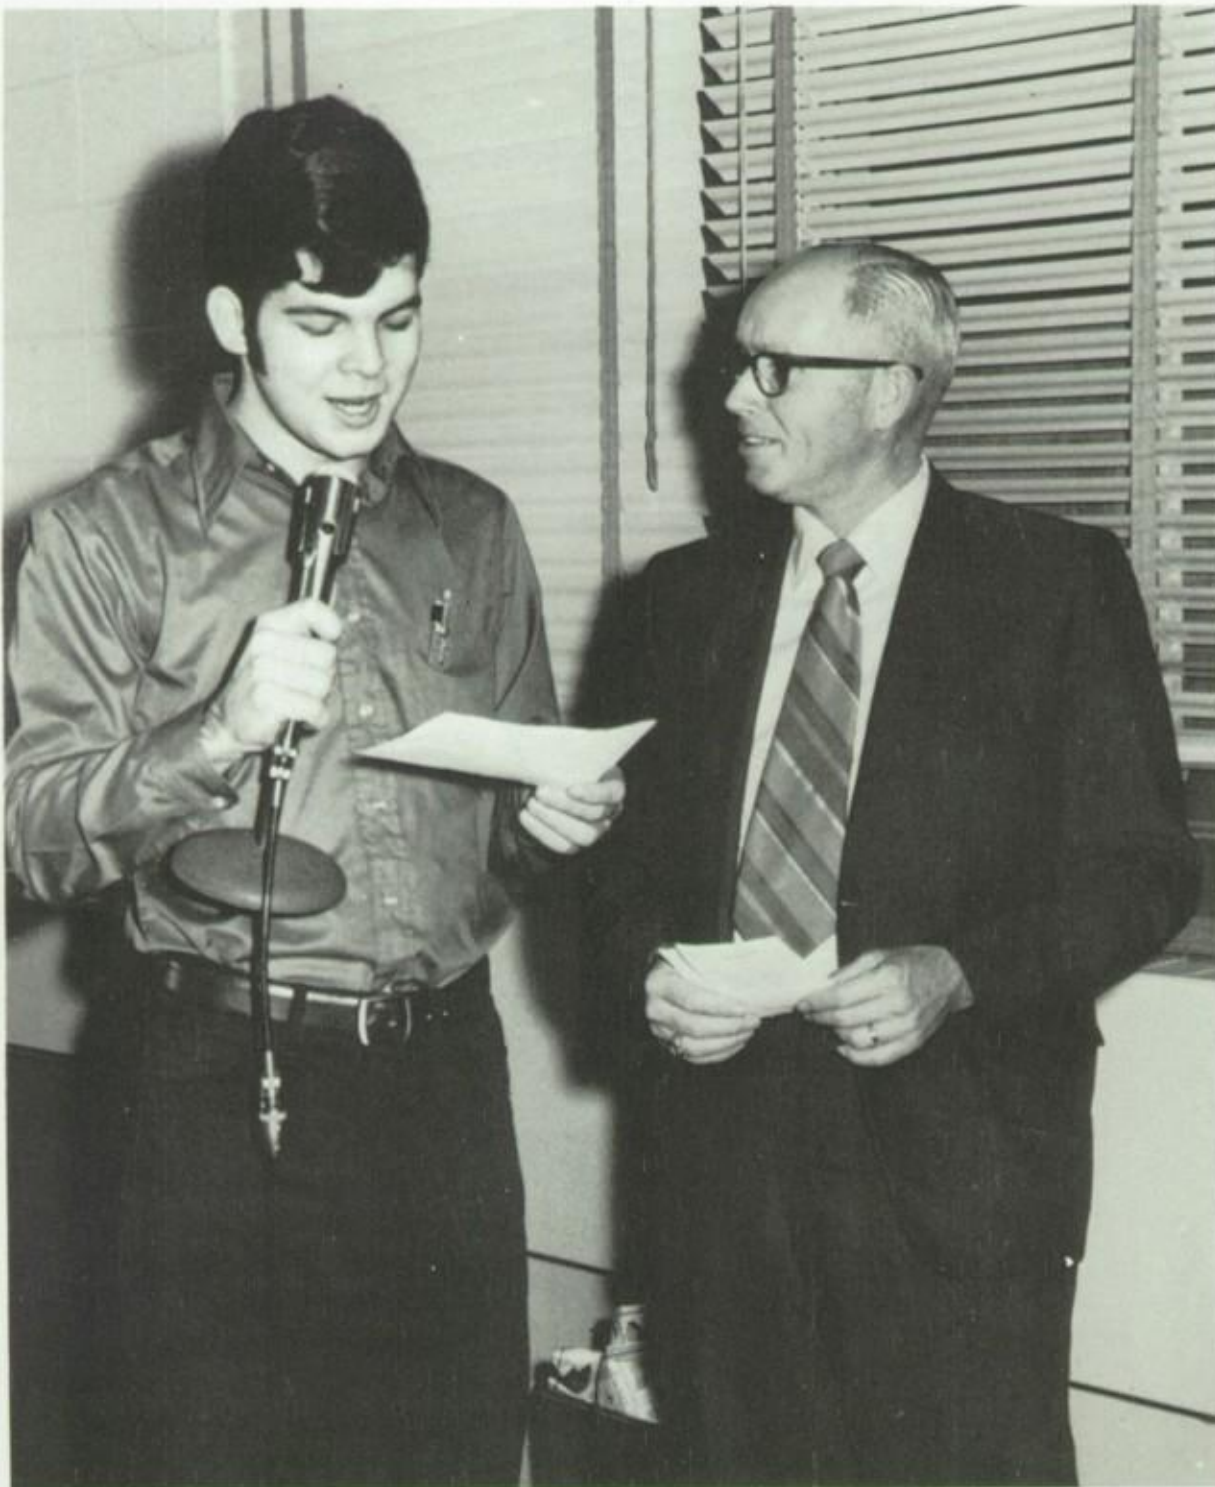

Activities and efforts of 1450 students and 73 certificated personnel were coordinated by Mr. William Gist, principal, as he planned an expanded curriculum and emphasized school unity with the assistance of Mr. Neal Grubaugh, assistant principal.

Mr. Grubaugh was in charge of organized activities and stressed that participation in the school program was important in citizenship training.

As Principal Gist worked with students, he found that they "expressed a trueness of their own individuality and displayed an honesty in their relationship with each other."

Teens find helpful aid

School life was more meaningful for many students as The Parent-Teacher Association and Administrative Assistants, Miss Martha Ann Wells and Mr. Joseph Moffitt, worked together to serve Hillcrest students.

P.T.A. provided transportation so that students were able to see Springfield at work in the Court House and business centers. Parents helped supervise during the musical presentations.

Young people found they had two dedicated friends as each found Miss Wells and Mr. Moffitt ready to guide them and to assist them with their personal problems.

Students receive advice about school activities

When students needed help in scholastic areas, counselors through their guidance were able to help smooth out the rough edges when they appeared along the way.

Each student was given special attention to his needs and desires in preparing his schedules of subjects.

Counselors kept records up to date and prepared files on new students and conducted testing programs.

Counselors worked with principals and administrative assistants in advising students about scholarships, college, and vocational opportunities

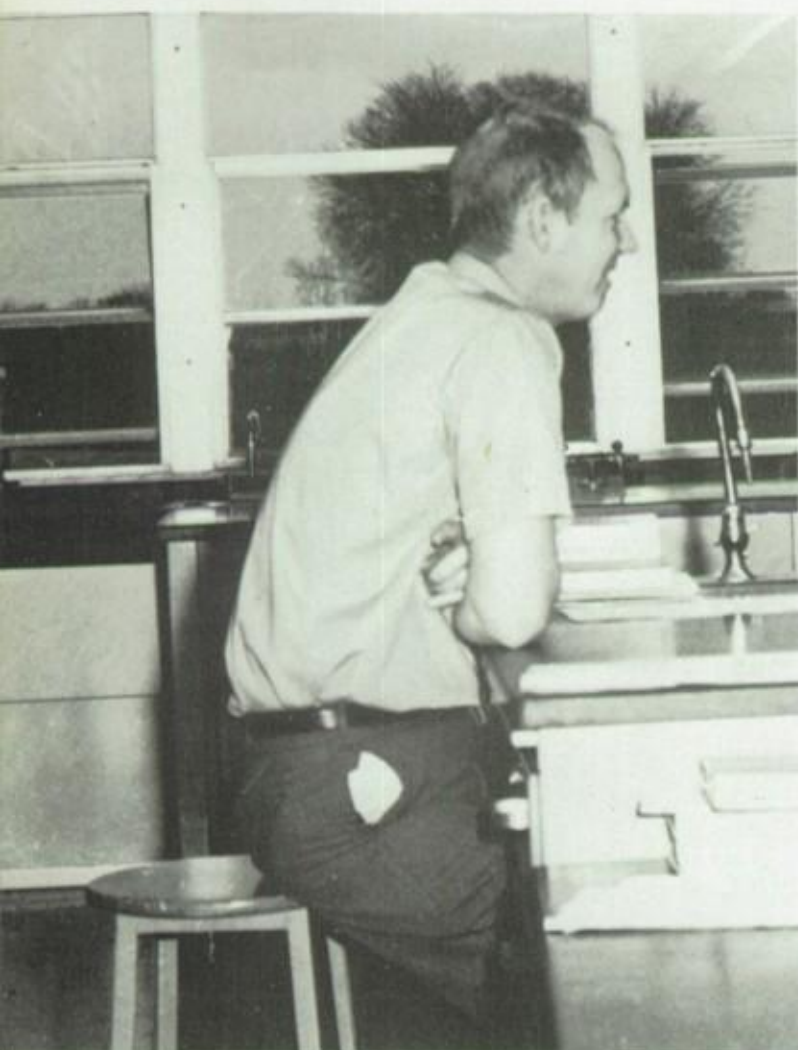

Mrs. Dorothy Lilly, English teacher, and Miss Cheryl Martin, junior counselor, talk to Denise Clark about her college plans.

Faculty aim is education

Working with a student population of approximately 1450 students enabled the Hillcrest faculty to "get together" to continue with the purpose that education is for all students.

A staff of 72 qualified teachers were involved in an educational program which offered 121 subjects including vocational technical curriculum. The faculty welcomed the opportunity of setting up a program on "Humanities, An Experiment in Understanding" based on studies students made in history, drama, music, literature, art, and other fields.

Students found that teachers' interest in the program extended to after school and evening hours found students and teachers participation in forty clubs and organizations, in rehearsals, and other extracurricular activities.

Youth gets career jobs

Under the direction of Mr. David Berryman at the Willard J. Graff Area Vocational Technical Center, 26 faculty members carried out the purpose of vocational and technical education. Youth was provided with training which would present opportunities for gainful employment.

Mr. Don Simmons, assistant director, helped with the curriculum of 25 course offerings to 662 students with 163 from Hillcrest. He also supervised buildings and grounds.

Mr. Louis Bruton, vocational director, worked with counseling and aided students in job placement.

Staffs attend to needs of students, building

Watching over the welfare of 1450 students were 18 cooks, eight custodians, and a nurse who helped to keep Hillcrest in top condition.

Mrs. Martha Sutherlin was in attendance each afternoon to check immunization records and to take care of minor ills. Sophomores met her as she checked their hearing in the drivers education classes.

The custodial staff worked over 300 hours in keeping up the maintenance of the school. They kept constant vigilance for the safety of the students in the building as well as on the grounds.

On pizza days the cooks baked 34 pans of pizza with 32 slices in each. Over 13,000 plate lunches and 2000 sandwiches were prepared each week.

COOKS . . . Front Row: Betty Hogan, Dorthy Troyer, Carolyn Shank, Marguerite Krenk, Helen Rains, and Geneva Snow. Second Row: Geraldine Morris, Florene Holden, Clella Sartain, Lois Pack, Goldie Lanham, and Nadine Hoffman. Third Row: Lula Day, Vairy Holt, Melba Barclay, Fredreka Buster, Maria Polodna, and Norma Andrews.

Frosh enjoy school life

In August, Hillcrest welcomed 404 freshmen as they entered a new world of experience. They adjusted quickly to the new environment and contributed their abilities to the student effort to "get together."

Loa Braig and Lisa Pennell were selected by their classmates to serve as Regalia attendants for the senior queen, Debbie Anderson.

In the musical, "Sound of Music," three freshmen students had leading roles as Captain Von Trapp's children: Jackie Detherage as Louisa, Celine Schmidt as Brigitta, and Clark Gable as Kurt.

Leading the freshman class were John Fielding, president; Lisa Pennell, vice-president; and Karen Delp, secretary, with Mrs. Lois Kirkman as the counselor.

Sophs start with spirit

Versatility and enthusiasm were the keywords for the sophomores as they started their year.

Beauty was found in the Regalia attendants, Lu Rita Charle and Sharon Stokes.

The speech and debate team found strong ability in Bruce Daniel and Bruce Neas.

The Stingers showed potential in the football power of Pat Parrott, Jeff McMillen, Mike Manes, and Terry Flannigan and in the sharp shooting of David Snowden along with George Flattery and John Ragain.

Mike Delp, Greg Stratton, Glen Menzies, and Don Archer added to the wrestling strength. Distance Jeff Whitlock and sprinter Mike Des-Camps sprinted for the track team.

Counselor Newton Edwards worked with Jeff McMillen, president; Joe Stockard, vice-president; and Barba Wimberley, secretary.

Juniors see challenges

As the juniors started the year leadership challenged them in areas of education and extracurricular activities.

In the musical "Sound of Music," it was noted that over 50 juniors participated as set builders, stage hands, and orchestra members with Ray Johnson taking the part of Frederick Von Trapp.

Challenges were met by 12 boys on the wrestling and basketball varsity teams. Many others gave outstanding performances in track, baseball, tennis, and golf.

Sally Pickering and Cheryl McKinney helped to keep student enthusiasm high as cheerleaders. Gay Baxter and Cheryl McKinney added beauty at the Regalia festivities as attendants to the queen.

Leading the juniors in their challenges were Kenny Gillming, president; Mark Stratton, vice-president; Peter Schuelzky, secretary; and Miss Cheryl Martin, counselor.

Seniors have class unity

For 302 members of the Senior Class, 1971-72 was a year which found the seniors united in a deep concern for each other and their school.

David Rothermel and Mike Binder placed on the all-conference team in football. Curt Wimberley and Tim Lovett received honorable mention. David Seaman was voted best sportsman by his fellow teammates.

Gregg's Grapplers had a successful season with Darwin Goff voted as the most valuable wrestler in the Southwest Missouri State College Tournament. Early in the year, seniors helped win the Ozark Conference Cross Country event with Mark Scott receiving the outstanding individual award. Track and baseball were manned by their share of seniors.

Winners in other areas were Steve Grant who won first in the district in the "Voice of Democracy" contest. Ronnie Snelling was semifinalist in the National Merit Scholarship while Danny Stiver received a letter of Commendation.

Dan Funkhouser, Nancy Coffey, and Mark Pennell had lead roles in the "Sound of Music."

Regalia Queen, Debbie Anderson, with attendants, Jacque Harrell and Charlotte Sears, reigned as the Regalia Royalty.

The seniors united in winning the class competition in the Childrens' Consolidated Fund Drive, topping all others with $133.03.

Elected officers were Joe Jackson, president; Clyde Sears, vice-president; and Cheryl McGhee, secretary. Counselor Weston Horst coordinated activities and advised seniors regarding college and careers.

Climaxing the chain of successful events remembered with pleasant thought were the prom and commencement.

Getting together in . . .

The 1972 Highlighter staff "gets together."

Acknowledgments

Getting together in '72 through love, friendship, and understanding brought Hillcrest closer together. Students, teachers, parents, and administrators seemed to discover mutual wants and needs. In this volume we hope to convert this idea to reality, so that it can always remain with those who were a part of it.

Special thanks and recognition go to the following for their contributions and efforts: To Mr. William Gist, principal, and Mr. Neal Grubaugh, assistant principal, for their aid and encouragement; to the custodians for their help in preparing for club pictures and for their cooperation in after-school and weekend work; to Mrs. Virginia Woodring for her advice and instruction, to Journalism I students for their help, and especially to Doug Damiani and Pete Schuelzky for their many hours of work on the index; to Comstock and Son for the beautiful color pictures they produced for the opening section; and to Diane Buckmaster, associate editor, and Becky Cook, copy editor, for their invaluable work and ideas.

A very special thanks goes to two people without whom this 1972 High-lighter would not have been possible: To our photographer, John Tranbarger, who worked many extra hours to produce the pictures that provide the basis for this yearbook; and to our adviser, Miss Margaret Backlund, for the confidence she had in her editors, her always cheerful attitude, and for the knowledge she shared with us.

To all these, and to the entire 1971-1972 Hillcrest student body, we say "thank you."
